

ADMISSIONS OPEN FOR SPECIALIST MATHS SCHOOL FOR ENTRY IN SEPTEMBER 2024

Gifted maths students in Surrey can now apply to study A-Levels at Surrey Maths School – a new state-funded specialist maths school for 16-19 year olds, serving Surrey, Sussex, Berkshire, Hampshire, South East and South West London.

Located in Guildford, close to the train and bus stations to facilitate students from across the South East region, Surrey Maths School is set to welcome its first cohort of students in September 2024.

The school will be centre of excellence for studying maths and further maths at A level, along with additional A Levels in chemistry, physics, economics and computer science, delivered through a partnership between Learning Partners Academy Trust and the University of Surrey.

Sahar Shillabeer and Nora Kettleborough (pictured left), have been appointed as Co-Heads of Surrey Maths School. They are currently Assistant Heads at King's College London Mathematics School (KCLMS), which achieved the highest A level results in the country in 2022.

Surrey Maths School, the eighth specialist maths school to open in England, will be a gateway to accessing the world's top universities, prestigious degree level apprenticeships and careers in Science, Technology, Engineering and Mathematics (STEM). It aims to improve the diversity of students going on to study maths at the highest levels and has a commitment to reach students who are under-represented in STEM – in particular, female students and students who might not otherwise have the support to win places on the most competitive STEM courses post-18.

Andrew Roach, Director of Education and Surrey Maths School Lead, Learning Partners Academy Trust, said: "We will set our own students up for the greatest opportunities available to the most brilliant mathematicians, and we will be a beacon of excellence for maths teaching across the region. Our Co-Heads have the brilliance, drive and experience to help the very best mathematicians to unlock their potential."

Admissions for Surrey Maths School open this month. The admissions process involves a maths aptitude test and interviews to be held in the Spring, following which conditional offers will be made subject to GCSE grades.
